

Looking again to the model of constitutional governance in Iran

Reihaneh ASHOFTEH
Mohammad Baghder AMERINIA

Abstract

Analyzing the experienced governance models in political sphere of a society which has passed for any reason from that models, it's not merely as supplying a historical phenomenon, rather it means re-evaluation of that as experienced patterns which needs to review in the form of fundamental and philosophical studying.

Detailed assessment of causes and influential factors in emerging of the constitutional theory and generally political-historical position of that is completely out of our subject. Rather this article wants to evaluating the epistemological models of that and describing its position in constitutionals laws theories.

Key words: constitutional, governance model, political jurisprudence, juridical supervision